of himself and others similarly situated,

CASE NO.

Plaintiff,

COMPLAINT

FLSA COLLECTIVE ACTION AND RULE 23 CLASS ACTION

GALLAGHER'S FAMOUS, LLC and DEAN POLL,

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Defendants.

-----X

Plaintiff alleges as follows:

INTRODUCTION

1. This lawsuit involves one of New York's most famous restaurants and restaurateurs blatantly stealing wages from their wait staff.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2. This Court has original federal question jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 because this case is brought under the Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. § 201, et seq. ("FLSA"). This Court has supplemental jurisdiction over the New York state law claims, as they are so related in this action within such original jurisdiction that they form part of the same case or controversy under Article III of the United States Constitution.

3. Venue is proper in this District because Defendants conduct business in this District, and the acts and/or omissions giving rise to the claims herein alleged took place in this District.

THE PARTIES

4. Defendant Gallagher's Famous LLC ("Gallagher's") is a New York Corporation that owns Gallagher's Steakhouse in midtown Manhattan New York.

5. Defendant Gallagher's Famous LLC restaurant is an "enterprise engaged in interstate commerce" within the meaning of the FLSA. Gallagher's has (1) employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and handling, selling, or otherwise working on goods or materials that have been moved in or produced for commerce by any person; and (2) an annual gross volume of sales in excess of $500,000.

6. Defendant Dean Poll is an owner of Gallagher's.

7. Gallagher's is owned and operated by Mr. Poll.

8. Mr. Poll exercises sufficient control of Gallagher's day to day operations to be considered Plaintiff's employer under the FLSA and New York law.

9. Defendant Dean Poll has the power to hire and fire the restaurant's employees.

10. Defendant Dean Poll has authority over restaurant employees' rates of pay.

11. To the extent that employment records are kept for employees, Defendant Dean Poll is involved in maintaining those records.

12. Plaintiff Patrick Joseph Hennessy has been employed by Defendants as a server at Gallagher's steakhouse restaurant for the last approximately two years.

FLSA COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

13. Plaintiff brings the First and Second Claims for Relief as a collective action pursuant to FLSA Section 16(b), 29 U.S.C. § 216(b), on behalf of all service employees, other than service managers, employed by Gallagher's on or after the date that is three years before the filing of the Original Complaint in this case as defined herein ("FLSA Collective").

14. At all relevant times, Plaintiff and the other FLSA Collective Plaintiffs are and have been similarly situated, have had substantially similar job requirements and pay provisions, and are and have been subject to Gallagher's decision, policy, plan and common policies, programs, practices, procedures, protocols, routines, and rules willfully failing and refusing to pay them at the legally required minimum wage for all hours worked and allowing non-tipped employees to share in their tips. The claims of Plaintiff stated herein are essentially the same as those of the other FLSA Collective Plaintiffs.

15. The First and Second Claims for Relief are properly brought under and maintained as an opt-in collective action pursuant to § 16(b) of the FLSA, 29 U.S.C. 216(b). The FLSA Collective Plaintiffs are readily ascertainable. For purpose of notice and other purposes related to this action, their names and addresses are readily available from the Gallagher's. Notice can be provided to the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs via first class mail to the last address known to Gallagher's.

RULE 23 CLASS ALLEGATIONS - NEW YORK

16. Plaintiff brings the state law Claims for Relief pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ("F.R.C.P.") Rule 23, on behalf of all service employees, other than service managers, employed by Gallagher's on or after the date that is six years before the filing of the Original Complaint in this case as defined herein (the "Class Period").

17. All said persons, including Plaintiff, are referred to herein as the "Class." The Class members are readily ascertainable. The number and identity of the Class members are determinable from Gallagher's records. The hours assigned and worked, the positions held, and the rates of pay for each Class member are also determinable from Gallagher's records. For purposes of notice and other purposes related to this action, their names and addresses are readily available from Gallagher's. Notice can be provided by means permissible under said F.R.C.P. 23.

18. The proposed Class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable, and the disposition of their claims as a class will benefit the parties and the court. Although the precise number of such persons is unknown, and the facts on which the calculation of that number are presently within the sole control of Gallagher's, upon information and belief, there are more than sixty (60) members of the Class.

19. Plaintiff's claims are typical of those claims which could be alleged by any member of the Class, and the relief sought is typical of the relief which would be sought by each member of the Class in separate actions. All the Class members were subject to the same corporate practices of Gallagher's, as alleged herein, of failing to pay all minimum wage, overtime, and call-in pay due misappropriating Class members' tips, and failing to provide Class members with required wage notices. Gallagher's corporate-wide policies and practices affected all Class members similarly, and Gallagher's benefited from the same type of unfair and/or wrongful acts as to each Class member. Plaintiff and other Class members sustained similar losses, injuries and damages arising from the same unlawful policies, practices and procedures.

20. Plaintiff is able to fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class and has no interests antagonistic to the Class. Plaintiff is represented by attorneys who are experienced and competent in both class action litigation and employment litigation and have previously represented plaintiffs in wage and hour cases.

21. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy - particularly in the context of wage and hour litigation where individual class members lack the financial resources to vigorously prosecute a lawsuit against Gallagher's. Class action treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently, and without the unnecessary duplication of efforts and expense that numerous individual actions engender. Because the losses, injuries and damages suffered by each of the individual Class members are small in the sense pertinent to a class action analysis, the expenses and burden of individual litigation would make it extremely difficult or impossible for the individual Class members to redress the wrongs done to them. On the other hand, important public interests will be served by addressing the matter as a class action. The adjudication of individual litigation claims would result in a great expenditure of Court and public resources; however, treating the claims as a class action would result in a significant saving of these costs. The prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Class would create a risk of inconsistent and/or varying adjudications with respect to the individual members of the Class, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Gallagher's and resulting in the impairment of class members' rights and the disposition of their interests through actions to which they were not parties. The issues in this action can be decided by means of common, class-wide proof. In addition, if appropriate, the Court can, and is empowered to, fashion methods to efficiently manage this action as a class action.

22. Upon information and belief, Gallagher's and other employers throughout the state violate the New York Labor Law. Current employees are often afraid to assert their rights out of fear of direct or indirect retaliation. Former employees are fearful of bringing claims because doing so can harm their employment, future employment, and future efforts to secure employment. Class actions provide class members who are not named in the complaint a degree of anonymity which allows for the vindication of their rights while eliminating or reducing these risks.

23. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class which predominate over any questions affecting only individual class members, including:

- a) Whether Gallagher's employed Plaintiff and the Class members within the meaning of the New York law.
- b) At what common rate, or rates subject to common methods of calculation, were and are Gallagher's required to pay Plaintiff and the Class members for their work.
- c) The policies, practices, programs, procedures, protocols and plans of Gallagher's regarding the types of work and labor for which Gallagher's did not pay the Plaintiff and the Class members at all.
- d) Whether Gallagher's paid Plaintiff and the Class members the appropriate minimum wage for all hours worked.
- e) Whether Gallagher's paid Plaintiff and the Class members the appropriate overtime wage for all overtime hours worked.
- f) Whether Gallagher's gave Plaintiff and the Class members the wage statements required by New York Labor Law§ 195 and the New York Hospitality Wage Order.

FACTS

24. Plaintiff's Consent to Sue form is attached hereto as Exhibit A.
25. Plaintiff worked at Gallagher's as a server.
26. Throughout his employment, Plaintiff typically worked three (3) to six (6), eight (8) hour shifts per week.
27. Defendants automatically deducted one half hour from Plaintiff's pay each shift on account of a meal break that Defendants knew Plaintiff did not take.
28. This caused Plaintiff to lose roughly 2.5 hours' worth of wages each week.
29. Throughout his employment, Plaintiff was paid an hourly rate that is lower than federal and New York State minimum wage.
30. Plaintiff was in fact paid the "tip credit" minimum wage under the FLSA and NYLL.
31. Gallagher's was not entitled to utilize the tip credits set forth under the FLSA and New York Labor Law, because it did not give Plaintiff the appropriate notice of the tip credit, including but not limited to the notices required by N.Y. Lab. Law§ 195.
32. Specifically, Defendants did not distribute to Plaintiff a Notice and Acknowledgement of Pay form as required by N.Y. Lab. Law§ 195 at each of the required times.
33. Because Defendants misapplied the tip credits to Plaintiff's wage, the rate under which they paid Plaintiff for overtime was also incorrect.
34. Plaintiff's weekly wage statement did not include all of his hours worked as required by N.Y. Lab. Law § 195.

35. Defendants committed the foregoing acts willfully and against Plaintiff, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs, and the Class.
