

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

DANIELLE SCHERZI, individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

v.

PACIFIC MARKET INTERNATIONAL, LLC
d/b/a/ PMI WORDLWIDE,

Defendants.

Case No.

COMPLAINT-CLASS ACTION

JURY DEMAND

---

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT
JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

WYATT GRONSKI
PLLC

ATTORNEYS

371 NE Gilman Blvd., Suite 260
Issaquah, WA 98027
425.395.7784

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1
2 1. This case concerns a deceptively dangerous product and its manufacturer’s
3 inadequate recall efforts.

4 2. On December 12, 2024, Defendant, PMI WW Brands LLC d/b/a Stanley 1913
5 (“Stanley” or “Defendant”), and the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (“CPSC”)
6 announced the recall of over 2.6 million stainless steel travel mugs spanning eleven different
7 product numbers.<sup>1</sup> Consumers were warned to “immediately stop using the recalled travel 8 mugs” because the mug’s lid threads can shrink when exposed to heat and torque, causing the 9 lid to detach during use, resulting in a burn hazard. Id. At the time of the recall, the CPSC and 10 Defendant were aware of at least 38 burn injuries and 91 reports of the lid detaching during use.
11 Id. Eleven of these consumers required medical attention due to burns. Upon information and 12 belief, countless consumers have experienced the travel mugs’ lids loosening, leaking, and/or 13 detaching.

14 3. There is no dispute the subject travel mugs are defective and that customers who 15 bought them did not get what they paid for. Today, tucked away on a remote portion of 16 Stanley’s website that few people are likely to see, is a link to the CPSC recall warning
17 customers to “immediately stop using the recalled travel mugs”<sup>2</sup> Thus, Stanley admits the travel
18 mugs are unsuitable for their intended purpose and pose an unreasonable safety hazard.

19 4. And yet Stanley refuses to give customers any money back for these defective
20 products. Instead, Stanley implemented a deficient recall that allows it to say they are doing the 21 right thing, when in fact the primary objective is to protect their bottom line.

22 5. Any requests for refunds are denied. A consumer has only one option: receive a 23 replacement lid, regardless of whether they continue to want one or to trust the manufacturer.
24 Given the breadth of the defect across Stanley’s travel mug model lines, the fact that the threads

25 _____
26 <sup>1</sup> <https://www.cpsc.gov/Recalls/2025/Stanley-Recalls-2-6-Million-Switchback-and-Trigger-Action-Travel-Mugs-Due-to-Burn-Hazard>

27 <sup>2</sup> <https://www.stanley1913.com/> (Product Recall link in the Support Menu)

1 on the mug itself are subject to the same shrinkage as the threads in the lid, and the fact that
2 Stanley is replacing the defective travel mug lids with clearly inferior lids – any reasonable
3 person would think twice about using a Stanley travel mug again whether that be with a 4 replacement lid or the original. What’s more, this replacement option is only available to those 5 consumers who still have the travel mug at their home; consumers who already discarded the 6 travel mug because they experienced the lid loosening, leaking, and/or detaching are left without 7 recourse.

8 6. By design, the recall received very little publication, with the result that the 9 response rate has been low. An offer to replace travel mug lids does little good when Stanley did 10 the bare minimum possible to let people know about the offer. This approach benefits Stanley by 11 minimizing the cost and burden of the recall.

12 7. Plaintiff Danielle Scherzi files this class action lawsuit to seek all available relief 13 to consumers, to raise awareness that Stanley’s travel mugs are a hazard, and to “encourage 14 companies to take greater care in avoiding the production [and sale] of hazardous products in the 15 first place.” Kaupelis v. Harbor Freight Tools USA, Inc., 2019 WL 6998661 at *10 (C.D. Cal.
16 Oct. 9, 2019) (quoting In re Mattel, Inc., 588 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1115-16 (C.D. Cal. 2008)).

17 PARTIES

18 8. Plaintiff Danielle Scherzi is domiciled in Rochester, New York. Scherzi
19 purchased a Stanley Trigger Action 12 oz. travel mug with the product identification number 20-20 02825 from a Target store in Rochester, NY in 2022.

21 9. Before purchasing the travel mug, Plaintiff carefully reviewed the mug and its 22 packaging and labeling on the shelf within Target. Neither source disclosed the existence of the 23 defect. The fact that the travel mugs are defective is material to Plaintiff. If Stanley’s product
24 packaging, website, or the store personnel had disclosed the defect, then Plaintiff would not 25 have purchased the travel mug, or she would have purchased it on different terms. Further,
26 Plaintiff experienced the defect at issue in this action—namely, her travel mug lid started
27 becoming loose. On two occasions the lid detached, causing coffee to spill all over Plaintiff. The

1 product is essentially worthless to Plaintiff as she is unable to use it for its essential purpose and
2 core functionality (i.e., safely store liquids which may be hot enough to cause burns if spilled).

3 10. Defendant PACIFIC MARKET INTERNATIONAL, LLC d/b/a PMI
4 WORLDWIDE is a Washington limited liability company with its principal place of business at 5 2401 Elliot Ave., Fl. 4, Seattle, Washington. It is engaged in the business of designing, 6 manufacturing, producing, advertising, selling, and/or distributing the various types of 7 drinkware and cookware, including the Stanley 1913 line of tumblers and travel mugs. Per 8 Stanley, its products are known for their purported durability and their ability to keep drinks hot
9 or cold for extended periods using double-walled vacuum insulation. Stanley develops and ships
10 its products to purchasers, resellers, and distributors throughout the United States, and creates 11 the website, specifications, and advertisements referring to their products in and/or disseminates
12 them from this State. Stanley operates an online retail store where its travel mugs are sold, 13 which can be found at <https://www.stanley1913.com/>.

14 11. Any reference made in this Complaint to Defendant includes its predecessors, 15 successors, parents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and divisions for the corresponding time period in 16 any way involved in the design, manufacture, promotion, distribution, and/or sale of the Stanley 17 travel mugs at issue in this case.

18 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

19 12. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2)(A) 20 because this case is a class action where the aggregate claims of all members of the proposed 21 class are in excess of $5,000,000.00, exclusive of interest and costs, and at least one member of 22 the proposed class is citizen of state different from Defendants.

23 13. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendant because it conducts 24 substantial business and is headquartered in Washington. All relevant business decisions were 25 made by Defendant in Washington. A substantial portion of the events giving rise to the claims
26 alleged here occurred in this State.

1 14. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because a substantial part 2 of the events, omissions, and acts giving rise to the claims herein occurred in this District and
3 because Defendant is headquartered in this District.

4 FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

5 15. Stanley tumblers and travel mugs are popular reusable items that come in various 6 sizes, colors, and designs. They are uniformly marketed as durable, leak-proof, and insulating,
7 keeping drinks hot or cold for hours. They are also advertised as BPA-free and made of stainless
8 steel. They have become a viral sensation on social media. The Stanley Quencher tumbler model
9 is largely responsible for Stanley going from a reported $73 million in revenue in 2019 to $750
10 million in 2023.

11 16. Products at issue: The Stanley travel mugs at issue in this case were and 12 continue to be sold at Amazon.com, Walmart, Dick’s Sporting Goods, Target, and other stores
13 nationwide and online starting June 2016 for between $20 and $50 depending on the model. The 14 recall involves two models: (1) the Stanley Switchback, available in 12 oz and 16 oz cups; and 15 (2) the Stanley Trigger Action, available in 12 oz, 16 oz, and 20 oz cups. The product
16 identification numbers for recalled models can be found at the bottom of the mug and include:
17 20-01437, 20-01436, 20-02211, 20-02033, 20-02779, 20-02825, 20-02030, 20-02745, 20-02957, 18 20-02034, and 20-02746.

19 17. Defect at issue: Per the CPSC, the travel mugs’ “lid threads can shrink when 20 exposed to heat and torque, causing the lid to detach during use, posing a burn hazard.”

21 18. The defect also causes the lid to become loose and leak even when it does not 22 fully detach.

23 19. At the time of the recall, the CPSC and Defendant were aware of at least 38 burn
24 injuries and 91 reports of the lid detaching during use. Eleven of these consumers required
25 medical attention due to burns. Upon information and belief, countless consumers have 26 experienced the travel mugs’ lids loosening, leaking, and/or detaching.

1           20.     The defect affects all 2.6 million units of the aforementioned product
2 identification numbers. Defendant and the CPSC have instructed consumers to “immediately
3 stop using the recalled travel mugs” regardless of whether their particular product appears to be
4 functioning correctly. See https://www.cpsc.gov/Recalls/2025/Stanley-Recalls-2-6-Million-
5 Switchback-and-Trigger-Action-Travel-Mugs-Due-to-Burn-Hazard (last visited December 23, 6 2024); see also Exhibit A.

7           21.     This is a defect in materials, workmanship, and/or design.

8           22.     The cause of the defect is the same for all of the products at issue.

9           23.     Relevant time period: All of the omissions at issue here were uniformly and 10 consistently made at all times during the last four years, at least. There have been no material 11 changes to the product packaging or other consumer facing materials during the relevant period.

12           24.     The omissions: Defendant described and describes the products as “leakproof”
13 travel mugs that “can take a beating” and “keep[] your beverage hot for up to 9 hours.” See 14 Exhibit B. The Amazon product page for the travel mugs states the Trigger Action models have 15 a “leak resistant cap,” and claims the “trigger action lid makes this travel thermos spill-proof and 16 easy for one-handed use.” See id. However, Defendant failed to disclose that due to a defect in 17 the materials, workmanship, and/or design, users of the travel mug were prone to experiencing
18 leaks or lid detachment. This defect results in an unreasonable risk of burn injury. This material
19 fact was concealed and/or suppressed by Defendant.

20           25.     The omission pertains to an unreasonable safety hazard that reasonable 21 consumers consider to be material.

22           26.     Plaintiff and class members would not have bought the travel mugs, or would not 23 have bought them on the same terms, if the defect had been disclosed. The materiality of the 24 defect also is demonstrated by the existence of the recall.

25           27.     Defendant did not disclose the defect on the product packaging, the product page
26 of its website, the owner’s manual, the product pages of other retailers who acted as Defendant’s
27 agents, or in any other customer-facing document. To the extent the products were sold at brick-

1 and-mortar locations, such as Walmart and Target, sales personnel and customer service
2 representatives did not disclose the defect and no other signage or labeling did either.

3 28. At the time of purchase, Plaintiff and class members did not know and did not 4 have reason to know that the travel mugs were defective. Defendant had exclusive knowledge of 5 that fact.

6 29. Defendant made partial representations to Plaintiffs and class members, while
7 suppressing the safety defect. Specifically, by describing the travel mug's features with language
8 such as leakproof, leak resistant, and spill-proof, the product packaging and product webpages
9 implied that they were suitable as travel mugs, without disclosing that they had a critical safety-
10 related defect related to the lid.

11 30. Defendant's pre-sale knowledge of the defect: Defendant was aware of the 12 defect at the time of sale.

13 31. Before the products were first launched, Defendant knew about the defect
14 because of pre-release testing.

15 32. After launch, Defendant monitored a variety of sources of information to detect
16 signs of defects. These sources of information include warranty claim data, customer complaints
17 to Defendant, replacement part data, and field reports. Defendant knows that for every complaint 18 made, there is a statistical likelihood that there were many more unreported incidents, and 19 Defendant made projections about the likely manifestation rate and future warranty claims based 20 on the number of known complaints.

21 33. The customer complaints about the travel mugs also would have put Defendant 22 on notice of the defect and contributed to its pre-sale knowledge of the defect, because the 23 defect is the same or substantially similar in all material respects. Defendant received 91 reports
24 worldwide, including 16 in the U.S., of the recalled travel mugs' lids detaching during use,
25 resulting in 38 burn injuries worldwide, including two burn injuries in the U.S., with 11
26 consumers worldwide requiring medical attention. Upon information and belief, the number of 27 reports about the defect – both the lid detaching and simply leaking – was significant. The fact

1 that so many owners worldwide made similar complaints indicated that the complaints were not
2 the result of user error or anomalous incidents, but instead a systemic problem with the travel
3 mugs. The reports and complaints from owners were similar enough to put Defendant on notice
4 that the incidents described were the result of a defect, and that the travel mugs were 5 experiencing unusually high levels of complaints.

6 34. Defendant also monitored and would have known about consumer complaints to 7 the CPSC. When a consumer posts a complaint on the CPSC website, all of the relevant
8 information provided to the CPSC is automatically sent via email to the manufacturer and 9 retailers. Monitoring complaints to the CPSC is standard industry practice that serves as an early 10 warning mechanism to spot defects that cause safety hazards, and Defendant adheres to that 11 practice.

12 35. In short, Defendant knew with certainty that the defect would manifest and 13 continue to plague consumers who purchased the products at issue.

14 36. No adequate remedy at law: Plaintiffs and members of the putative class are 15 entitled to equitable relief because no adequate remedy at law exists.

16 37. Legal remedies are inadequate because they are not equally prompt and certain 17 and in other ways efficient as equitable relief.

18 38. Damages are not equally certain as restitution because the standard that governs
19 restitution is different than the standard that governs damages. Hence, the Court may award
20 restitution even if it determines that Plaintiff fails to sufficiently adduce evidence to support an 21 award of damages.

22 39. Damages and restitution are not the same amount. Unlike damages, restitution is 23 not limited to the amount of money Defendant wrongfully acquired plus the legal rate of 24 interest. Equitable relief, including restitution, entitles a plaintiff to recover all profits from the 25 wrongdoing, even where the original funds taken have grown far greater than the legal rate of 26 interest would recognize. Plaintiff seeks non-restitutionary disgorgement of profits in connection 27 with her unjust enrichment claims.

1 40. Legal claims for damages are not equally certain as restitution because equitable
2 claims entail few elements.

3 41. In short, significant differences in proof and certainty establish that any potential
4 legal claim cannot serve as an adequate remedy at law.

5 42. The recall does not render this lawsuit moot: The recall does not render this 6 lawsuit moot because it does not provide all of the same relief available in this lawsuit.

7 43. Under the recall, Defendant will only provide a replacement lid for the travel
8 mug. No cash refunds are provided, partial or otherwise. This remedy is not viable for people
9 like Plaintiff who either no longer trust the reliability of Stanley’s travel mugs and lids in 10 general, or no longer have the travel mug because they disposed of it due to the defect. Further,
11 the functionality and features of the replacement lids are obviously inferior to the original lids.
12 See Exhibit C. For example, with respect to the Trigger Action mugs, replacement lids lose the 13 functionality of the trigger, cannot break down for easy cleaning, and no longer match the style
14 and design of the mug. See Exhibit D. The replacement lids make the mugs have an overall 15 inferior value and price, causing consumers to lose the value of their mugs as a result of the 16 recall.

17 44. Moreover, New York’s General Business Law § 350 provides for statutory 18 damages of $500 per unlawful sale, which also is greater than made available under the recall.

19 45. The recall was only briefly publicized and in a very limited manner. Therefore,
20 many eligible class members remain unaware of it, and the response rate has been low. The 21 amount and reach of the publicity concerning the notice of recall was not comparable to the 22 typical notice provided in a class action.

23 CLASS ALLEGATIONS

24 46. Class Definition: Plaintiffs brings this action on behalf all people in the 25 following classes and subclasses (collectively referred to as “Class Members”):

26 (a) Nationwide Class: all people in the United States who purchased a subject 27 travel mug.

1 (b) Multi-State Consumer Protection Class: all persons who purchased a
2 subject travel mug for personal, family, or household use: (1) in the states of Michigan,
3 Minnesota, or New Jersey within the applicable statute of limitations; (2) in the state Missouri
4 within the applicable statute of limitations; (3) in the states of California, Florida,
5 Massachusetts, or Washington within the applicable statute of limitations; or (4) in the states of 6 Illinois and New York within the applicable statute of limitations.

7 (c) New York Subclass: all people who purchased a subject travel mug in 8 New York.

9 47. Each of the above class definitions is a placeholder that “may be altered or 10 amended before final judgment.” Fed. Civ. P. 23(c)(1)(C). Subject to additional information 11 obtained through further investigation and discovery, the foregoing class definitions may be 12 expanded or narrowed by amendment or in the motion for class certification, including through 13 the use of multi-state subclasses to account for material differences in state law, if any.

14 48. Excluded from the putative classes are Defendant and any entities in which 15 Defendant has a controlling interest, Defendant’s agents and employees, the judge to whom this 16 action is assigned, members of the judge’s staff, and the judge’s immediate family. Also 17 excluded are any claims for personal injury.

18 49. Numerosity. Members of the Classes are so numerous that their individual
19 joinder herein is impracticable. On information and belief, each Class or Subclass includes 20 thousands of consumers. According to the CPSC, consumers purchased 2.6 million units of the 21 subject travel mugs. The precise number of Class Members and their identities are unknown to 22 the Plaintiff at this time but may be determined through discovery. Class Members may be 23 notified of the pendency of this action by mail and/or publication through the distribution
24 records of Defendant, its agents, or other means.

25 50. Commonality and Predominance. Common questions of law and fact exist as to 26 all Class Members and predominate over questions affecting only individual Class Members.
27 Common legal and factual questions include, but are not limited to:

1 (a) Whether Defendant knew or should have known of the defect at issue in 2 this case, and if so, when it discovered the defect;

3 (b) Whether knowledge of the defect at issue in this case would be important
4 to a reasonable person, because, among other things, it poses an unreasonable safety hazard;

5 (c) Whether Defendant failed to disclose and concealed the existence of the 6 defect from potential customers;

7 (d) Whether Defendant's conduct, as alleged herein, violates the consumer
8 protection laws asserted here;

9 (e) With respect to the New York Subclass, additional questions of law and 10 fact common to the members that predominate over questions that may affect individual 11 members include whether Defendant violated the New York General Business Law § 349 and § 12 350.

13 51. Typicality. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the Classes in that 14 Plaintiff and the Classes sustained damages as a result of Defendant's uniform wrongful
15 conduct, based upon Defendant's failure to inform Plaintiffs and all others similarly situated that 16 the products at issue here can be dangerous.

17 52. Adequacy. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of Class
18 members. Plaintiff has retained counsel that is highly experienced in complex consumer class
19 action litigation, and Plaintiff intends to vigorously prosecute this action on behalf of the 20 Classes. Plaintiff has no interests that are antagonistic to those of the Classes. Plaintiff has no 21 past or present financial, employment, familial, or other relationship with any of the attorneys in 22 this case that would create a conflict of interest with the proposed class members.

23 53. Superiority. A class action is superior to all other available methods for the fair
24 and efficient adjudication of this controversy for, inter alia, the following reasons: prosecutions
25 of individual actions are economically impractical for members of the Classes; the Classes are 26 readily definable; prosecution as a class action avoids repetitious litigation and duplicative
27

1 litigation costs, conserves judicial resources, and ensures uniformity of decisions; and
2 prosecution as a class action permits claims to be handled in an orderly and expeditious manner.

3 54. Without a class action, Defendant will continue a course of action that will result
4 in further damages to the Plaintiffs and Members of the Classes and will likely retain the 5 benefits of its wrongdoing.

6 COUNT I

7 Violations of the Washington Consumer Protection Act: RCW Chapter 19.86

8 55. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges each preceding paragraph as though fully set
9 forth herein.

10 56. Plaintiff brings this cause of action individually and on behalf the Nationwide
11 Class and the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class.

12 57. Defendant has violated the Washington Consumer Protection Act (“CPA”), RCW
13 Chapter 19.86.

14 58. Section 19.86.020 of the CPA states, “[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair
15 or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce are hereby declared
16 unlawful.” RCW § 19.86.020.

17 59. Under the CPA, “[p]rivate rights of action may ... be maintained for recovery of 18 actual damages, costs, and a reasonable attorney’s fee. A private plaintiff may be eligible for 19 treble damages,” and “may obtain injunctive relief, even if the injunction would not directly
20 affect the individual’s own rights.” Washington Pattern Jury Instruction Civil No. 310.00
21 (Consumer Protection Act—Introduction) (internal citations omitted); RCW § 1986.090.

22 60. Defendant engages in the conduct of trade or commerce within the meaning of 23 the CPA. Defendant does this by selling travel mugs in a manner that directly and indirectly
24 affects people of the state of Washington. Further, Defendant sells its travel mugs nationwide.

25 61. As alleged more fully above, Defendant made and disseminated untrue and 26 misleading statements of facts in their advertisements to Class members, constituting acts of 27 unfair methods of competition and/or unfair or deceptive acts or practices.

1           62. Defendant has represented and continues to represent to the public, including
2 Plaintiff and members of the Nationwide Class and Multi-State Consumer Protection Class,
3 through its deceptive packaging, that the travel mugs are free of the defect alleged herein, are fit
4 for the purpose for which the travel mug would be used, and conform to the promises or 5 affirmations of fact made on the package or label and advertising materials. Because Defendant
6 has disseminated misleading information regarding the travel mugs, and Defendant knows,
7 knew, or should have known, through the exercise of reasonable care, that the representations
8 Defendant made are false and misleading, Defendant has violated the CPA.

9           63. As a result of Defendant's false advertising, Defendant has and continues to 10 unlawfully obtain money from Plaintiff and members of the Nationwide Class and Multi-State
11 Consumer Protection Class. Plaintiff therefore requests that the Court cause Defendant to restore
12 this fraudulently obtained money to her and members of the Nationwide Class and Multi-State
13 Consumer Protection Class, to disgorge the profits Defendant made on these transactions, and to 14 enjoin Defendant from violating the CPA or violating it in the same fashion in the future as 15 discussed herein. Otherwise, Plaintiff and members of the Nationwide Class and Multi-State
16 Consumer Protection Class may be irreparably harmed and/or denied an effective and complete 17 remedy.

18           64. Defendant acted with knowledge and intent.

19           65. This caused Plaintiff and putative class members to make purchases they 20 otherwise would not have made, pay more for their purchases, and deprived them of their 21 expectancy interest in receiving the travel mugs as advertised.

22           66. The harm to Plaintiff and putative class members greatly outweighs the public
23 utility of Defendants' conduct. There is no public utility to misrepresenting the price of a 24 consumer product. Plaintiff and putative class members' injury was not outweighed by any 25 countervailing benefits to consumers or competition. Misleading consumer products only injure 26 healthy competition and harm consumers.

1 67. Defendant engaged in fraudulent conduct that had the tendency or capacity to 2 deceive or confuse reasonable consumers.

3 68. Defendant's conduct also constitutes "unfair" business acts and practices within 4 the meaning of the CPA, in that the conduct was injurious to consumers, offended public policy,
5 and was unethical and unscrupulous. Defendant's violation of consumer protection and unfair
6 competition laws resulted in harm to consumers.

7 69. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's unfair and deceptive practices,
8 Plaintiff and the other members of the Nationwide Class and Multi-State Consumer Protection
9 Class have suffered out-of-pocket losses.

10 70. Plaintiff and the other members of the Nationwide Class and Multi-State
11 Consumer Protection Class have suffered an injury in fact resulting in the loss of money and/or 12 property as a proximate result of the violations of law and wrongful conduct of Defendant
13 alleged herein, and they lack an adequate remedy at law to address the unfair conduct at issue 14 here.

15 71. Plaintiff seeks all relief available under the CPA.

16 COUNT II

17 Violations of New York General Business Law § 349

18 72. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges each preceding paragraph as though fully set
19 forth herein.

20 73. Plaintiff brings this cause of action individually and on behalf all other class
21 members in the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class and the New York Subclass.

22 74. New York's General Business Law § 349 prohibits deceptive acts or practices in 23 the conduct of any business, trade, or commerce.

24 75. In its sale of goods throughout the State of New York, Defendant conducts 25 business and trade within the meaning and intendment of New York's General Business Law § 26 349.

1           76. Plaintiff and members of the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class and the New 2 York Subclass are consumers who purchased the travel mugs from Defendant for their personal 3 use.

4           77. By the acts and conduct alleged herein, Defendant engaged in deceptive, unfair,
5 and misleading acts and practices, which include, without limitation, misrepresenting that the 6 travel mugs (a) would not contain a dangerous defect and (b) are generally recognized as safe
7 for use. Defendant intentionally concealed and omitted material facts regarding the true nature
8 of the travel mugs.

9           78. The foregoing deceptive acts and practices were directed at consumers.

10           79. The foregoing deceptive acts and practices are misleading in a material way 11 because they fundamentally misrepresent the characteristics and quality of the travel mugs to 12 induce consumers to purchase the same.

13           80. By reason of this conduct, Defendant engaged in deceptive conduct in violation
14 of New York's General Business Law.

15           81. Defendant's actions are the direct, foreseeable, and proximate cause of the 16 damages Plaintiff and members of the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class and the New York
17 Subclass have sustained from having paid for and used Defendant's products.

18           82. As a result of Defendant's violations, Plaintiff and members of the Multi-State
19 Consumer Protection Class and the New York Subclass have suffered damages because: (a) they 20 would not have purchased the travel mugs on the same terms if they knew that the travel mugs 21 had a dangerous defect; (b) they paid a premium price greater than the amount offered in the 22 Recall; and (c) the travel mugs do not have the characteristics, uses, benefits, or qualities as 23 promised.

24           83. On behalf of herself and other members of the Multi-State Consumer Protection
25 Class and the New York Subclass, Plaintiff seeks to recover her actual damages or fifty dollars, 26 whichever is greater, three times actual damages, and reasonable attorney fees.

COUNT III

Violations of New York General Business Law § 350

84. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges each preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

85. Plaintiff brings this cause of action individually and on behalf all other class members in the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class and the New York Subclass.

86. New York’s General Business Law § 350 prohibits false advertising in the conduct of any business, trade, or commerce.

87. Pursuant to said statute, false advertising is defined as “advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect.”

88. Based on the foregoing, Defendant engaged in consumer-oriented conduct that is deceptive or misleading in a material way which constitutes false advertising in violation of New York’s General Business Law § 350.

89. Defendant’s false, misleading, and deceptive statements and representations of fact were and are directed toward consumers. Defendant also actively concealed and knowingly admitted material facts regarding the true nature of the travel mugs.

90. Defendant’s false, misleading, and deceptive statements and representations of fact and omissions were and are likely to mislead a reasonable consumer acting reasonably under the circumstances.

91. Defendant’s false, misleading, and deceptive statements and representations of fact and omissions have resulted in consumer injury or harm to the public interest.

92. As a result of Defendant’s false, misleading, and deceptive statements and representations of fact, and omissions, Plaintiff and the members of the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class and the New York Subclass have suffered and continue to suffer economic injury.

93. As a result of Defendant’s violations, Plaintiff and members of the Multi-State Consumer Protection Class and the New York Subclass have suffered damages due to said

1 violations because: (a) they would not have purchased the travel mugs on the same terms if they
2 knew that the travel mugs had a dangerous defect and are not safe for use; (b) they paid a
3 premium price in the amount greater than the amount offered in the Recall; and (c) the travel
4 mugs do not have the characteristics, uses, benefits, or qualities as promised.

5 94. On behalf of herself and other members of the Multi-State Consumer Protection
6 Class and the New York Subclass, Plaintiff seeks to recover her actual damages or five hundred 7 dollars, whichever is greater, three times actual damages, and reasonable attorney fees.

8 COUNT IV

9 Unjust Enrichment

10 95. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges each preceding paragraph as though fully set
11 forth herein.

12 96. Plaintiff brings this cause of action individually and on behalf all other Class
13 Members.

14 97. To the extent required, Plaintiff asserts this cause of action in the alternative to 15 legal claims, as permitted by Rule 8.

16 98. The unjust enrichment claims are premised on Defendant's pre-sale activities and 17 are unrelated to their post-sale obligations to provide repairs.

18 99. Plaintiff and the Class Members conferred a benefit on Defendant in the form of 19 the gross revenues Defendant derived from the money Plaintiff and Class Members paid to 20 Defendant.

21 100. Defendant knew of the benefit conferred on it by Plaintiff and the Class
22 Members.

23 101. Defendant has been unjustly enriched in retaining the revenues derived from 24 Plaintiff's and the Class Members' purchases of the products, which retention of such revenues
25 under these circumstances is unjust and inequitable because Defendant omitted that the products
26 were dangerous. This caused injuries to Plaintiff and class members because they would not 27

1 have purchased the products or would have paid less for them if the true facts concerning the 2 products had been known.

3 102. Defendant accepted and retained the benefit in the amount of the gross revenues
4 derived from sales of the products.

5 103. Defendant has profited by retaining the benefit under circumstances which would 6 make it unjust for Defendant to retain the benefit.

7 104. Plaintiff and the Class Members are, therefore, entitled to restitution in the form
8 of the revenues derived from Defendant's sale of the travel mugs.

9 105. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's actions, Plaintiff and Class
10 Members have suffered in an amount to be proven at trial.

11 106. Putative Class Members have suffered an injury in fact and have lost money as a 12 result of Defendant's unjust conduct.

13 107. Putative Class Members lack an adequate remedy at law with respect to this 14 claim and are entitled to non-restitutionary disgorgement of the financial profits that Defendant
15 obtained because of its unjust conduct.

16 COUNT V

17 Fraud by Omission / Intentional Misrepresentation

18 108. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges each preceding paragraph as though fully set
19 forth herein.

20 109. Plaintiff bring this cause of action individually and on behalf all other Class
21 Members.

22 110. This claim is based on fraudulent omissions concerning the safety of consumers
23 who use the travel mugs. As discussed above, Defendant failed to disclose that the travel mugs 24 had a dangerous defect.

25 111. The false and misleading omissions were made with knowledge of their 26 falsehood. Defendant is a nationwide manufacturer and distributor who knew of reports of the 27

1 travel mugs' defective and dangerous nature. Nonetheless, Defendant continued to sell its 2 worthless travel mugs to unsuspecting consumers.

3 112. The false and misleading omissions were made by Defendant, upon which 4 Plaintiff and Class Members reasonably and justifiably relied, and were intended to induce and 5 actually induced Plaintiff and Class Members to purchase the travel mugs.

6 113. The fraudulent actions of Defendant caused damage to Plaintiff and Class
7 Members, who are entitled to damages and punitive damages.

8 114. Plaintiff seeks all relief available under this cause of action.

9 COUNT VI

10 Negligent Misrepresentation

11 115. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates the above allegations by reference as if set 12 forth fully herein.

13 116. Plaintiff brings this cause of action individually and on behalf of all other Class
14 Members in the alternative to her intentional misrepresentation claim (Count V).

15 117. As alleged more fully above, Defendant negligently made false representations 16 and material omissions of fact to Plaintiff and Class Members concerning the safety of 17 consumers who use the travel mugs.

18 118. The representations were false and/or omissions were material.

19 119. When Defendant made these misrepresentations and omissions, it knew they 20 were false and material at the time it made them and/or acted negligently in making the 21 misrepresentations and omissions.

22 120. Defendant intended that Plaintiff and Class members rely on these 23 representations and omissions and Plaintiff and Class Members read and reasonably relied on 24 them.

25 121. Class-wide reliance can be inferred because Defendant's misrepresentations and 26 omissions were material, i.e., a reasonable consumer would consider them important in deciding 27 whether to buy the travel mugs.

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

Plaintiff demands a trial by jury on all claims so triable.

Dated: December 27, 2024

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Todd Wyatt

WYATT GRONSKI PLLC

Todd Wyatt (Bar No. 31608)
371 NE Gilman Blvd., Suite 260
Issaquah, WA 98027
Phone: 425-395-7784
E-Mail: todd@wdlawgroup.com

SMITH KRIVOSHEY, PC

Yeremey O. Krivoshey (Cal. Bar No. 295032)*
166 Geary Street, Ste. 1500-1507
San Francisco, CA 94108
Phone: 415-839-7000
E-Mail: yeremey@skclassactions.com

SMITH KRIVOSHEY, PC

Joel D. Smith (Cal. Bar No. 244902)*
Aleksandr "Sasha" Litvinov (Ky. Bar No. 95598)*
867 Boylston Street, 5th Floor, Ste. 1520
Boston, MA 02116
Phone: 617-377-7404
E-Mail: joel@skclassactions.com
E-Mail: sasha@skclassactions.com

*To be admitted Pro Hac Vice

Attorneys for Plaintiffs

ClassAction.org

This complaint is part of ClassAction.org's searchable class action lawsuit database and can be found in this post: Stanley Travel Mug Recall Lawsuit Filed Against Pacific Market International Over Lid Defect, Burn Risk

---